is not a man on the present squad that can be spared. One man out of the unit of the organization would be destroyed and the hopes of the strong team would be shattered.

Slow Down on Work.

With this kind of a problem facing him, the coach has been unable to tell just what to do, but he will probably give way to the eligibility committee and slow down on the work. Indications that this will be the case were furnished yesterday afternoon. The boys went up to the gymnasium, even though it was Saturday, and had a good workout. After the practice, Bennion told them that they would not be able to select him as a member of the team when they had a few minutes to spare and practice shooting baskets.

For Aggie Game.

To start the game, he will have Roy McIntyre at center, "Mac" and Briggs have been fighting neck and neck all season for the place and are about as evenly matched as two peas. Of course, Captain Skidmore will play one of the guards. Many think that Skid is the class of the state at the position. Vadai Peterson plays the same style of game as Skid, but he is not so fast. Peterson has been in the game well and is a sure shot. He has two worthy opponents for the position in Paul and Abbott. Both of these boys know the game well and are tough. FIX DISTANCES FOR AUTOMOBILE RACES

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17.—The distance of the grand prize automobile race, to be run over the course at Santa Monica, a beach suburb, on February 23, will be 409.24 miles, or forty-eight laps of the track. This announcement was made here today by Leon T. Shetler, chairman of the Western Automobile association's racing committee, under the auspices of which the grand prize and Vanderbilt cup races will be held this year.

The distance for the Vanderbilt cup race will be thirty-five laps of the course, or 209 miles. This race will be run February 21.

NAUGHTON TALKS OF BOXING IN ENGLAND

and sending in harder blows than he receives.

With due reference to the Times' advice to budding English pugilists, the writer would arise to remark that their successful fighter is born rather than schooled. Something in the nature of teamwork between temperament and physique is essential.

He must be a sturdy fellow to begin with, and he must be thoroughly imbued with the belief that he can stand the other fellow's punches better than the other fellow can stand his.

Under the old style we have each of us heard many a time and oft of brains overcoming brawn; the Oxford student subduing the barge and all that kind of thing, but in the blow for blow business, that goes with fighting, ruggedness is a necessary quality.

A latter boxer might worry along for years under the "hit, stop and get away" order of things, but he would last but a brief while if sent against Americans, whose knowledge of boxing is confined to rooking and tearing.

Another thing. The methods of some of the most famous American fighters, so that there is little chance of the new system of fist-fencing being reduced to a science that can be expounded in manuals.

Root and Tear.

The basic principle, it appears to me, after watching Terry McGovern, Billy Panke, Frank Klaus, "Batting" Nelson, Ad Wolgast and very many others, is to crumple and keep both gloved fists plunging like a double-headed battering ram at body or head.

The gloves and forearms, working like shuttles, intercept many of the opponent's punches, but in the main the secret of success lies in being able to absorb more than the man opposed to you.

Aside from this double-headed tattoo, however, there are breast-grazing uppercuts; loop and loop blows, overhead wallops, backhanders and numbers of hooks and jabs, and I have yet to see the successful fighter who did not specialize on some particular delivery.

By all means have the British ringman adopt American methods. But do not make the mistake of thinking that it is entirely a matter of being shown how. First of all, you must be built right, after that you must gain a general idea of the thing, and after that individual ingenuity comes in.

GUNBOAT SMITH WEDS: FIRST WIFE DIVORCED

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—"Gunboat" Smith, the pugilist, and Miss Helen Remley of New York were granted a marriage license here today. The license was refused when Miss Remley said she was 17 years old, but she amended her statement today. She told the license clerk that she would be 19 years old in February.

Names of Kiviat, Jones and Kolehmainen Largely Written in Track History.

OF the fifty-seven new records set up on the cinder and indoor tracks during the year just passed, Hannes Kolehmainen broke more records and attracted more attention than any track athlete has in several years. At all the distances between two and ten miles the Finn proved to be a marvel. When he stepped off the five miles at Madison Square garden during the meet held by the New York Athletic club on February 12, in the remarkable time of 24 minutes 29.15 seconds, he knocked more than 20 seconds from the previous record held by George Honnag, and hung up a mark which is likely to stand for some time to come. Kolehmainen's record for the ten miles outdoors is 51 minutes 3.25 seconds, while indoors he is credited with 51 minutes 6.35 seconds, both world's records.

John Paul Jones, Star. Although Kolehmainen broke more records than any other man on the track, the greatest individual performance must be credited to John Paul Jones, the champion miler from Cornell. At the intercollegiate championships at the Harvard stadium, on May 31, Jones knocked a full second off his own previous world's record for the mile by covering the distance in 4 minutes 14.25 seconds. Once only in the history of running has this record been exceeded over a measured mile, and that was when W. G. George, the English professional, did the distance in 4 minutes 12.35 seconds, more than a generation ago.

Kiviat's Indoor Mile. While Jones covered himself with glory by making a record for the mile outdoors, it remained for Abel Kiviat to hang up a new mark for the indoor mile. At the Columbia university games last spring Kiviat reeled off a mile in 4 minutes 18.15 seconds, which now stands as the world's record for the distance indoors.

Business Men Form Volley Ball League. The members of the business men's gymnasium class of the Y. M. C. A. have developed the volleyball fever and are planning a league composed of four teams, the Eagles, Hawks, Owls and Cuckoos. The game promise to be hard fought. Physical Director George H. Marshall has arranged a schedule. Two games have already been played. All games will start at 11 o'clock.

The four teams are arranged by Physical Director Marshall, consist of the following players: Eagles—Campbell, captain; Kline, Macintosh, Hugh, Tuttle and Cawthorne. Hawks—Murphy, captain; Carter, Mitchell, Hugh, Tuttle and Cawthorne. Owls—Duncan and Christopher. Cuckoos—Lemmon and not expected to live. Kirby struck him an overhead chop to the base of the brain as he was reeling from a right uppercut to the jaw. Spectators and referee called it a clean fight. Kirby is in jail awaiting results.

Puglist May Die. SANTA ROSA, Cal., Jan. 17.—Phil Sinitier, otherwise known as "Sailor" Sharkey, a Santa Rosa pugilist, who was knocked out last night by Charles Kirby of Canada, a middleweight, was still unconscious tonight and not expected to live. Kirby struck him an overhead chop to the base of the brain as he was reeling from a right uppercut to the jaw. Spectators and referee called it a clean fight. Kirby is in jail awaiting results.

Revolver Record Broken. SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 17.—A record for the world's record mark of 114 was broken by a Springfield team. It is the record of 114 made early this season by a club of San Francisco. The record was made on January 1, against the team of New York.

FEDERAL INVASION RECALLS 1901 WAR

clared war in 1901 it realized, as does the Federal league today, that to succeed it not only must develop its own stars, but also get some of the big drawing cards of the rival organization. And, just as the Federals are doing today, the Americans sent agents hither and thither in attempts to lure players to their ranks.

Success didn't immediately crown their efforts. The players were as skeptical of the American league in 1901 as they are of the Federal league today.

The players, of course, were perfectly willing to jump if they were sure they would get their salaries regularly. The American league, setting an example for the Federal league, guaranteed the salaries of the first ones to jump, and signed the players up on three, four and five year contracts.

The leaping act of the first few players who left the National for the American didn't influence other National league players to jump—right away. After Naps jumped one or two others followed his example. Then there was a lull in the leap frog business. This caused the National league to assert that the American league had about "shot its bolt."

Sounds like something we've heard quite recently, doesn't it?

Lave Cross Led Horde. You remember what happened, don't you? A short time before the 1901 playing season opened Lave Cross, shortstop of the Brooklyn team, announced one sunny morning that he had received a mighty fine offer from the Americans and had signed a Philadelphia American league contract.

But even this didn't disturb the surface confidence of the National leaguers that the American league was about through—that it surely was doomed to bankruptcy.

"Those American league people are crazy," declared the National league moguls at that time. "They are paying unheard of salaries to players. They'll go broke the first year. They aren't even established. They can't get the public's support. We've got it, and we're going to hold it. Without patronage, they must fail—and they will. Every time those American leaguers take a player from us and pay him more money than acts just as another nail in the American league coffin."

Listen familiar, too, doesn't it?

What Hanlon Said. One amusing little incident engaged our attention while doing the perusing act. We encountered an interview under the date of March 18, 1901, which was credited to Ned Hanlon, then manager of the Brooklyn team. Hanlon is said:

"How can the American league expect to win? If it had known more about the baseball business it never would have entered it. It's easy enough to figure out, profits on paper, but the American league soon will know better."

The amusing part is that the very same Hanlon who thought there was no chance for a second league now is one of the leaders in the third—the Federal league.

Just now there is a wide-spread opinion that the Federal league, no matter how strong it grows, never can make a successful entry in New York.

"Impossible—absolutely impossible," he said.

And that's just what was said back in 1901 when the American league made efforts to break into New York.

Oddly enough, in 1901, just when the Americans were waging war like the Federals are doing these days, the National league was at swords' points with the Players' Protective association, an organization of ball players headed by Charles L. Zimmer, the old Cleveland catcher, who acted as president.

Case Again Parallel. Up to the time the American league declared war the National league practically refused to recognize the association. There seemed no chance of the association's demands being granted. But when the Americans loomed along on baseball horizon, and began making overtures to the players, the National league quickly discovered that some of the players' demands were justified. And they granted the larger portion of them.

Which is just what the haughty National commission did the other day relative to the demands of the players' fraternity, after ignoring and sneering at them at first. But it granted the demands only after the Federal league came booming along.

In many respects the baseball history of 1901 has been repeated in 1914. Whether the Federals will duplicate the feat of the American league, beat the organized enemy and become a baseball power is a question that time can answer. But that doesn't bar one from hazarding a few guesses. One of ours is that the Federal league, jeers, sneers and ridicule notwithstanding, will give the organized baseball crowd one of the merriest little battles that has been staged since Napoleon tackled a fellow named Wellington at Waterloo, a few years back.

GIBBONS MUST BE RIGHT FOR PA

Gibbons at 145, ringside, or at 150, for the championship, to be ten or twenty rounds.

Carpenter Stays in France. George Carpenter, the Frenchman, must have changed his mind sailing for Australia after his defeat for two more fights in which will delay his departure time. He was understood to have received here from abroad a letter from his wife, who had accepted "Suzy" Baker to visit him once and take part in two fights which he was to be guaranteed $20,000 and expenses—some of which he is not a champion of his own sphere in Europe. He is a great card over in England, but he has refused good offers to come to the states to meet some real middleweights heavyweights.

Should Carpenter fail to go, Antipodes, it will rob Eddie of a chance to cop off a bunch of the Oshkosh boys would have down close to $10,000 for his proposed match with the Frenchman.

In addition to meeting Paul of the French champion is to meet British hope, Bandman, March 3, and some of the sports there think the Bandman will be better than did Bombardier, surely cannot do any worse.

Holberg Going Good. Waldemar Holberg, the Danish lightweight, or rather welter (as he has gone into the class), has been cutting quite a dash in Australia the past few months. He has defeated some of the good lightweight and welter there Frank Plecto of California, Bronson of Indianapolis, also had a number of good ones in England, and seems to be getting like "Bat" Nelson, along. Holberg is thinking of coming to America on his way home, does he will find plenty of work stacked up against, as there is evident that "Rocky" has for at least two days after his fight with Bob McAllister, met Flynn of Boston, and from all hands the Boston man a big away weight to a man like "Smith" and hold his own, remain seen.
